PEIPING CALM AS ATTACKERS ENVELOP CITY

Chiang's East China Command Reported Withdrawing from Pengpu To Chuhsien

12TH NANKING STAND

Nanking, Dec. 17—(AP)—Supreme headquarters of Chiang Kai-Shek's East China command today began withdrawing from threatened Pengpu to Chuhsien, only 30 miles north of this uneasy capital.

Pengpu, 105 miles northwest of Nanking, was the anchor for the government's Hwai river defense line. It became Nationalist headquarters after the abandonment of the stronghold of Suchow, 100 miles farther north.

The withdrawal coincided with reliable reports that the government's battered 12th Army group, trapped by the Chinese Communists northwest of Pengpu for 18 days, has been wiped out.

Official dispatches Thursday reported that the 12th was making a last stand with less than half its original force of 110,000 troops. They were described as compressed into an area of only three miles in circumference.

(The Chinese Communist radio claimed yesterday that the 12th had been wiped out.)

Associated Press Correspondent Seymour Topping reported from Pengpu that transports, which had been airlifting supplies to the encircled 12th, no longer could be seen.

As headquarters troops began taking down telephone wires and loading trucks in the movement to the railway yards, panic began spreading among Pengpu's 300,000 population, Topping reported.

Meanwhile, the crash of artillery fire echoed in Peiping, and a new Red menace appeared to be rising along the Grand Canal 90 miles northeast of Nanking.

Trains bound from Pengpu to Pukow, just across the Yangtze river from Nanking, were packed with refugees carrying their household goods. Many rode on top of the cars.

From Peiping, Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Moosa said Nationalist headquarters there reported counterattacking to the southeast of the surrounded city.

"The argument of machineguns and mortars became a little more insistent," Moosa reported.

"People trying to get to the city's south field, seven miles away, in the hope of flying to safer places were turned back. Troops told them fighting was nearing the field."

The North China provincial councils in Peiping radioed Nanking appealing for combat planes to fight the Reds.

Pro - government dispatches said the Nationalists had abandoned a rail town only seven miles north of Tangku, seaport by Tientsin. The Reds were reported attacking a point 13 miles farther north.

Mossa reported Peiping was strangely calm despite elaborate preparations for a house-to-house defense of that ancient capital.

Most Peiping citizens still believed the city with its historic buildings would be spared the battle.

COMMANDO KELLY IS AID TO MARGIOTTI

Pittsburgh, Dec. 17 — (AP) — Pittsburgh's most publicized war hero, Charles J. (Commando) Kelly, performed his first legal job yesterday, and you'd never guess what it was.

He was working as an assistant to Attorney Charles Margiotti in defense of Frank Valenti, local restauranteur, acquitted in federal court on a charge of conspiracy to evade the draft.

Kelly won the Congressional Medal of Honor for his feat in becoming practically a one-man army in the battle of Salerno, Italy in 1943.

He joined Margiotti's staff a week or 10 days ago. Since his return from service in 1945, he has written magazine articles, operated a gasoline station, stumped for the Republican party, and done house painting.

Truman Consulting Leaders On Plans For State of Union Message To Congress Jan. 5

Washington, Dec. 17—(AP)—Democratic congressional leaders found some comforting signs today that President Truman will keep them posted in advance of his legislative plans.

Mr. Truman went out of his way at a news conference yesterday to note that he had consulted with Senator Barkley of Kentucky and Rep. Rayburn (D-Tex)—due to be speaker of the house in the 81st congress—on plans to deliver his State of the Union message to congress personally January 5.

And the president put in a plug for a pay raise for Barkley, the vice president-elect.

Some of Mr. Truman's congressional lieutenants have grumbled in the past that the first they had heard of several White House proposals was when they read about them in the newspapers.

One particular case in point was said to have been Mr. Truman's quickly shelved plan early this year for a $40-a-person tax cut.

But politicans think times have changed.

They now expect Barkley and Rayburn, as the chief liaison men between the Senate and House, to be kept abreast of White House thinking on issues that affect Congress.

Mr. Truman built this idea up further with his plug for a salary increase for Barkley. And Mr. Truman said he certainly would not veto a bill raising his own pay. But he added he isn't asking for a raise.

As for what he plans to recommend in his January 5 message in the way of taxes and price controls, Mr. Truman told reporters they'll have to wait for the text. But he said in response to another question that he'll ask again for approval of the St. Lawrence waterway.

In connection with that project, the President was told that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, his recent election opponent, had accused Mr. Truman of "trying to pick political daisies."

The President replied that he thinks the daisy picking is on the other side of the fence.

The dispute between the two stems from Dewey's efforts to have New York state join the province of Ontario in developing a hydro - electric project. The administration insists the whole undertaking, including navigation as well as power, should be launched at once by an agreement between this country and Canada.

SCALDS PROVE FATAL

Meadville, Dec. 17 — (AP) — Thomas Lee Johnson, 15 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Johnson of Meadville, was fatally scalded yesterday when he pulled a pan of boiling water from a kitchen stove. His father is a member of the faculty at Allegheny College's department of music and is a band director. Funeral services will be held at New Castle.

Takes Poison While Quizzed For Slaying

St. Louis, Dec. 17—(AP)—Detective Captain William Washer said that Dr. Robert C. Rutledge, 27, took poison early today when authorities arrested him for questioning in the fatal stabbing of Byron C. Hattman, engineer with Emerson Electric Company here, in a Cedar Rapids, Ia., hotel room Tuesday.

City hospital reported Rutledge's condition is extremely critical.

Rutledge is assistant resident physician of St. Louis Childrens Hospital.

Washer said St. Louis and Cedar Rapids police went to Rutledge's home to question him in connection with Hattman's death. He said the doctor swallowed poison when his wife told him police had come to the house to arrest him.

Washer quoted Mrs. Rutledge as saying her husband went to Cedar Rapids the day Hattman left St. Louis.

Washer said Mrs. Rutledge told him her husband had trouble with Hattman and that a knife was flashed. She said her husband did not know Hattman was dead until he returned to St. Louis and read newspaper accounts, Washer reported.

The detective captain said Mrs. Rutledge told him the argument was over Hattman's alleged attentions to her. Doctors at city hospital said Rutledge had a black eye when he was arrested.

Police said Rutledge is being held in the hospital ward on a charge of being a fugitive from Cedar Rapids from a murder charge.

Hattman's body was found in the Cedar Rapids hotel Tuesday night by a maid. Police said he had been beaten and stabbed apparently with a long, two-edged knife. They said the stabbing caused his death.

States' Rights Followers May Find Welcome Mat Out

Washington, Dec. 17—(AP)—Prodigal followers of the State's Rights movement may find the welcome mat out for them when the Democratic party stages its annual Jefferson-Jackson day dinners early next year.

Democratic officials are said to be planning to send invitations as a sort of indirect peace gesture to many who strayed somewhat afield in the election campaign.

In fact, one Democratic official who didn't want to be named told a reporter:

You may be surprised at how many of the so-called Dixiecrats attend these dinners as good Democrats."

It was emphasized, however, that there will be no peace moves from the party toward those who took leading roles in the civil rights revolt which cost President Truman 39 southern electoral votes.

For instance, no one expects the national committee to invite either Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina or Gov. Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi to come back into the fold. They were the standardbearers for the States' Rights ticket.

On the other hand, it was indicated that a lot of other officials —some of whom took lusty cracks at the president's civil rights proposals—will find that most, if not all, is forgiven.

President Truman has said he isn't mad at anyone.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday he doesn't expect at this time to send any special message to capitol hill on his civil rights program.

He said he doesn't think a separate message will be needed—that the objectives can be reached without it.

Israel Loses Bid In U. N. Council

Paris, Dec. 17—(AP)—Israel's bid for membership in the United Nations failed to win Security Council approval today.

Five nations voted to admit Israel. Five abstained and one voted against the new state. An affirmative vote of seven is needed for approval by the 11-nation council.

Syria, one of the Arab nations at war with Israel, voted against the application.

Voting for Israel were the United States, Russia, the Soviet Ukraine, Argentina and Colombia.

Abstaining were Britain, China, France, Canada and Belgium.

Earlier, the Council side-tracked for the day an Egyptian protest that Israelis attacked trapped Egyptian forces yesterday at Faluja in the Negev Desert of southern Palestine. Only Belgium voted with Syria on the Syrian motion. All the others abstained.

Curfew Will Keep Right On Ringing For Brookville Kids

Brookville, Dec. 17—(AP)—Borough councilmen decided last night that curfew will keep right on ringing for the next three and a half months.

Or rather it will keep right on blowing. It's a siren which drives youngsters off the street here every night at 10 o'clock.

The borough dads kept silence while citizens heatedly argued both sides of the curfew question at a council meeting last night.

The Rev. Bryan Swartwood of the First Free Methodist Church told council:

"If the parents took care of the children, the police chief and the burgess wouldn't have to. But I'm 100 percent in favor of the curfew because the parents don't seem to be doing it."

Mrs. Hudson Smith, mother of a 16-year-old girl and wife of a gas and oil drilling contractor, asserted the curfew is "detrimental to business."

She offered to withdraw her objections to it, however, if council would lower the age limit to 16 instead of 17 and make the hour 11 instead of 10.

"If you'll do that," said Mrs. Smith, "I'll go home and let council run the town itself."

Mrs. Smith's husband was among those who presented petition opposing the curfew. He said he and other workers had obtained about 700 or 80 signatures.

Three officers of the Women's Christian Temperance Union told council their organization hadn't met yet but that when it did they were sure it would support the curfew.

Nobody reported on what effect the curfew has apparently had the two weeks it has been in effect. Its object is to curtail juvenile delinquency.

WAGE BOOST PROPOSED IN RAIL DISPUTE

Presidential Board Recommends "Non-Operating" Employes Be Hiked Seven Cents Hour

WITH 40-HOUR WEEK

Washington, Dec. 17—(AP)—A presidential board today recommended that the railroads give "non-operating" employes a seven-cents an hour wage increase immediately and put them on a 40-hour week next September without loss in pay.

The non-operating employes—the clerks and mechanical workers who do not operate trains—now work 48 hours a week.

The board proposed that the seven-cent increase be retroactive to Oct. 1.

Under the proposal, the shift to the 40-hour week would be made without any change in "take home" pay. The board calculated that it would take the equivalent of a 20 percent increase in base rates to preserve the "take home" pay unchanged.

First reaction on the union side was a comment from George M. Harrisor, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, that the recommendations, "On the whole afford a good basis for negotiations of a settlement of the dispute."

Union leaders and railroad representatives will meet in Chicago next Monday to go over the report.

The board estimated its proposals would cost the railroads $340,000,000 in 1949. This would include $150,000,000 for the cost of the 40-hour week from September to the end of 1949, plus the seven-cent increase for all of 1949.

The proposed seven-cent increase would be to a "third round" postwar wage increase of 18½ cents an hour and 15 cent an hour were granted in 1946 and 1947 respectively.

The workers had asked a cut in the work week to 40 hours, without any reduction in "take home" pay, and—on top of that—a 25 cents an hour wage increase.

The so-called "non - operating" railroad workers are those who do not operate trains.

The board's recommendations, made today to President Truman, are not binding on the carriers or unions. But such recommendations made under terms of the railroad act usually form the basis for dispute settlements.

The board was headed by William M. Leiserson, with David L. Cole and George Cook as members.

The board said that it felt the non-operating rail workers should get the 40-hour week because "all other interstate industries have had the 40 hour week since 1938 when the fair standards act was adopted."

The board said the 40 hour week "is now firmly a part of our national industrial policy."

The board recommended that the railroads be given until September 1, 1949 to prepare for inauguration of the shorter work week.

Farm Groups Against Oleo Law Changes

Harrisburg, Dec. 17—(AP)—Pennsylvania's farm organizations served notice today that they will oppose any altering of the state's oleomargine laws.

The State Council of farm organizations, a group of some 40 statewide agriculture Associations, listed its opposition at the top of a slate of recommendations to the general assembly at the Council's annual meeting here yesterday.

The oleo law, enacted in 1947, was attacked recently by state Sen. Louis H. Farrell ((R.-Phila)., It requires the licensing of persons sling oleomargine and prohibits the sale of it with coloring added. Restaurants are required to carry a notice on menus when they serve it.

Farrell said he would propose legislation to repeal the restrictions.

The Council, in its resolution, said it would not oppose the repeal of another law barring the use of oleo in penal and charitable institutions.

In another resolution, the council reaffirmed its opposition to the tax law by the 1947 legislature.

The law permits municipalities to anything not taxed by the state. The council first came out against the law at last year's meeting.

M. Red Welch, of Briggettstown, was re-elected president of the council.

SPURT REPORTED IN PITTSBURGH AREA

Pittsburgh, Dec. 17—(AP)—A substantial spurt in business in the Pittsburgh district last week brought it almost to the highest level of the year.

The Bureau of Business Research at Pitt said its index showed business activity to be 202.2 per cent of the 1935-39 average, as compared with 200.1 the week before.

Electric power production reached a new high, bituminous coal tonnage was the best in 10 weeks, and department store sales rose sharply.

HOURLY PAY RAISE

Pittsburgh, Dec. 18—(AP)—Three cracker industry firms gave their 85 AFL-drivers a 10.6-cents hourly pay raise yesterday, retroactive to Sept. 1. The increase was contained in a contract signed by National Biscuit, Colonial Biscuit and Sunshine Biscuit, Inc., with local 485-AFL Bakery Drivers Union.

WINTER WEATHER IS PREDICTED FOR GAME

Philadelphia, Dec. 17—(AP)—The weatherman had bad news today for the more than 37,000 fans who will witness the National Football League championship playoff here Sunday.

The forecast:

"Rain or snow Sunday. Colder during the week-end with temperatures averaging about three degrees above normal of 35."

Shibe Park where the Philadelphia Eagles and Chicago Cardinals will battle it out for the NFL title has been covered all week by a tarpaulin and layer of straw. This has protected the turf from rains the past several days.

Administration To Ask Congress For Tightening Of Espionage Law

Alias Santa Claus Bubbles Over With Christmas Spirit

Alias Santa Claus, bubbling over with the Christmas Spirit, bounded into the Times-Mirror office today with about as little confusion as a miniature whirlwind.

"Good morning everybody," he shouted enthusiastically, "The Big Day is just a week away. And have I got a lot of work to do!"

He scooped up the mail off the counter with a flourish and headed for his old battered rolltop desk in the corner. The office gradually returned to normal, but just when everything was peaceful and quiet again, Alias Santa broke the silence with a booming:

"Amen!"

"Amen to what?" the office staff inquired.

"To this," the jovial gent said. "Here's a nice, crisp five dollar bill and pinned to it is a little note which reads:

"'In memory of Hoopie. May his soul rest in peace.'"

Alias Santa paused long enough to draw his big bandanna handkerchief out of his pocket and loudly blow his nose. Then he continued:

"I hope wherever Hoopie is, he'll it. I like to remember him as a grand little guy who always was trying to do somebody a favor but invariably ran into trouble while doing it."

(Few of Hoopie's friends ever knew that his real name was Clyde Reynolds until his death recently in Jamestown.)

"I got several other nice contributions today to help needy youngsters and older folks this Christmas," Alias Santa continued.

"Here's $10 from that up-and-coming Warren Junior Chamber of Commerce that's doing so many wonderful things around town these days.

"Here's another check for $5.00 from the Federated Club of Democratic Women.

"And $3.00 in bills from that wonderful Anonymous Family."

Somerset County Utilities Disrupted By An Ice Storm

Somerset, Dec. 17—(AP)—Repairmen toiled around the clock today restoring order to Somerset county's phone and electric service, disrupted by an ice storm yesterday.

At the peak of the trouble, about three-fourths of the county's telephones and some 600 miles of electric power lines were out of service.

Ice had formed on the lines in 30-degree temperature after day-long rainfall. Many cables snapped under the weight of the ice, three inches thick in some places. Others were broken by the crash of ice-laden trees.

Confluence, Rockwood and Stoystown were without phone service and many lines were down in Somerset. Long distance service to Pittsburgh and Cumberland was disrupted.

The Rural Electrification Authority said hundreds of farmers were without electric service for many hours. Half of Somerset had no power and the same condition existed in confluence, Brother Valley, Allegheny, Larimer, Southampton and Northampton townships.

Dairy farmers pressed members of their families into service to help with milking when electric milkers went out of action.

Food from private home freezers was rushed from farms to public lockers in town.

Ralph Poorbaugh, president of the Somerset REA Branch, called emergency repair crews from Bedford county. He said the job was difficult as workmen had to clear about 500 trees which had fallen across lines in wooded areas. He estimated damage at not less than $20,000.

Electricity at Somerset Community Hospital was not interrupted.

In Westmoreland and Cambria counties, falling trees blocked the Menoher highway connecting Ligonier with Johnstown. Many phone lines were down several hours in the Pike Country Club section of Westmoreland county.

In Clearfield county, six townships suffered disrupted electric service that was gradually being restored today. The Luthersburg-Grampian area was hardest hit.

Telephone service to the affected Clearfield county communities was still out by mid-morning. The power failure forced radio station WCED-FM to close temporarily.

Warren county luckily escaped the severe ice and sleet storm which struck the Johnstown-Somerset district yesterday, but its effects were felt here.

The power station of the Pennsylvania Electric Company at Saxton was knocked out of service for some time due to storm damage to the power lines. As a result, a heavy power load was shifted onto other stations in the big Penelec system, and in some sections the output of power was curtailed between 4 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. until damage could be repaired.

Penelec officials said that in the Warren area, several of the large industrial power consumers were asked to cut down on their power load as much as possible during the emergency. District Manager J. P. Fenstermacher said his company appreciated the ready cooperation received from the industries.

PITTSBURGH REPORTS 73,000 UNSOLD TREES

Pittsburgh, Dec. 17—(AP)—With only a week until the holiday, Pittsburgh Christmas tree dealers today woefully gazed at 73,000 unsold spruces, pines, and firs.

The dealers maintained, however, they would stick to their price demands of $3 for an average tree. Holdout householders who are waiting for a last minute price drop are just wasting their time, the tree merchants declared.

Present price tags, the dealers pointed out, are about a dollar less than last year. Meanwhile the railroads continued to chalk up $3.50 a day for each unsold carload of trees that remains in the yards.

Tie-Mely Advice For Selecting Neckties

Hollywood, Dec. 17—(AP)—All right girls, before you mob the necktie counters for Christmas gifts—get some tie-mely advice from Senor Valles of MGM's division:

"If you're not sure, buy a knit in a solid color.

"Never buy a tie with a high sheen.

"If you're confident, try a polka dot or even a college stripe with several colors.

"If you're very sure, might even try a small pattern, but stay away from large patterns, hand painted ties or plaids."

How about bow ties, professor?

"Not for papa," says Valles. The bow tie belongs to youth: Age limit 35."

DROWNS IN ALLEGHENY

Pittsburgh, Dec. 17—(AP)—Mrs. Ada Garland, 65, of Sharpsburg, missing since last Tuesday, was found drowned in the Allegheny river at Etna yesterday. Police said she was fully clothed and that there was no evidence of foul play.

Pet Deer Is Accused Of Raiding Icebox

Oakville, Ont., Dec. 17—Bambi a 14-month-old pet deer, was accused today of icebox-raiding.

A neighbor claimed that Milton's pet deer ate a roast, a pound of bacon and a pound of butter from his outdoor refrigerator.

Game Warden Dudley Hitchcox said it was the first time he had heard of a deer eating cooked meat, but cheary said he would make restitution.

Hunt Parolee For Murder In Wayne County

Honesdale, Dec. 17—(AP)—A posse of state police and Wayne county citizens combed the Pocono mountain woodlands and lake regions today for a 50-year-old paroled murderer accused of slaying a man during a fight.

Sheriff Ed Reifer said the hunted man is Claude Swingle of Lake Ariel, Pa. He is accused of stabbing and shooting 28-year-old Layton Brooks of nearby Gravity during a scuffle in a tiny general store last night.

Two of four eyewitnesses were injured, one seriously.

State police here said Swingle would be charged with murder when arrested.

Reifer said Swingle was identified as the killer by store owner Wilbant Cobb and his wife, Irene, and two customers, Mr. and Mrs. House.

Mrs. Cobb was wounded in the left side by a stray bullet as she tried to separate Brooks and Swingle, Reifer said.

House was slashed in the abdomen with a knife when he drew too close to the battlers, the sheriff added. House was taken to Hahnemann Hospital in nearby Scranton. Mrs. Cobb was treated at home.

Reifer said Swingle served 25 years in New York institutions for the second degree killing of a Binghamton, N. Y., policeman during an attempted holdup in 1920.

Swingle was committed to Auburn (N. Y.) prison where he attempted a jail break with nine other prisoners in 1921. He was then transferred to Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Beacon, N. Y., then later committed to Clinton Prison at Dannemora, N. Y., from where he was paroled in 1945.

Reifer said he didn't know what prompted the fight between Brooks and Swingle.

Dr. A. M. Cook, summoned to the general store by Cobb, said Brooks died almost instantly of the gunshot wounds.

Official Welcome Home For "Kitty Hawk" In Capital

Washington, Dec. 17—(AP)—An official welcome home was arranged today for the clumsy craft which first propelled man into the air and changed the pace of peace and war.

The ceremony comes 45 years to the hour after Wilbur and Orville Wright went aloft in their "flyer" popularly known as the "Kitty Hawk" for the North Carolina town near which it flew.

Chief Justice Vinson was scheduled to accept the wood, wire and cloth biplane from Milton Wright, of Dayton, Ohio, acting for the estate of his uncle, Orville Wright.

Orville died last January 30. He had sent the plane to London in 1926 because American authorities had been reluctant to give him and his brother full credit as discoverers of the principle of mechanical flight.

But Orville's papers disclosed that he had asked the science museum of South Kensington to return the relic after his death for deposit in the Smithsonian Institution.

Vinson, as chief justice, is chancellor of the Smithsonian.

The 600-pound plane was hoisted into position in the north hall of the Arts and Industries building Monday. It hangs from cables as the first exhibit to greet visitors beyond the main entrance. The spot was occupied for many years by Charles A. Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," now moved back in the same hall.

The "Kitty Hawk's" flying experience covered a span little longer than the scheduled ceremonies. The brothers made four hops within an hour and a half. The plane was damaged on the fourth landing, and was completely wrecked a few minutes later when the wind rolled it over and over on the hard sand.

NEW VIDEO STATION

Pittsburgh, Dec. 17—(AP)—The city's first video station, WDTV, will take the air Jan. 11. It is owned by Dumont television. The hookup will give the first television link between eastern and midwestern cities. The station is already making test broadcasts.

HOLSTEIN BECOMES MOTHER OF QUADS

Burgettstown, Dec. 17—(AP)—May, a seven-year-old Holstein cow, today could boast of accomplishing a feat which doesn't happen oftener than once in six million times she had become the mother of quadruplet calves.

May is owned by Carl E. Campbell, dairy farmer of nearby Bulger, R. D. 2, who was at church when the quads arrived Sunday morning. A hired man filled in as mid-wife.

The three bulls and one heifer calf, all of whom are doing nicely, weigh about 50 pounds each.

Their father was two-year-old Ormsby King Elmer, a Holstein bull Campbell bought from the herd of Pastor Brothers at Ray, Pa. King Elmer died of an infection last summer.

The mother, May, is no registered.

MAN ACCUSED IN BOMBSIGHT THEFT KNOWN

Said to Be Ballistic Expert Who Has Been Spotted And Questioned By Federal Agents

TO REOPEN HISS CASE

Washington, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Attorney General Clark said today the administration will ask for tightening of the nation's espionage laws as soon as the new congress meets next month.

Clark made the statement after attending a meeting of President Truman's cabinet at the White House.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday, in reply to a question, that he had asked Clark to look into the possibility of tightening up the espionage laws. He said the Justice Department had been studying the matter for some time, but that it was a difficult matter to handle and still stay within the constitution's bill of rights.

Today, Clark was asked what was being done by his department along the lines Mr. Truman mentioned. He replied:

"We'll have some recommendations right at the beginning of the session amendments to the present statutes on espionage."

He refused to go into detail.

As Clark made this statement congressional spy hunters told reporters the man accused of getting the Norden bombsight secret for Russia is a ballistics expert who has been spotted and questioned by federal agents.

The House Un-American Activities committee also:

Showed signs of reopening the Alger Hiss case by asking Francis B. Sayre, former assistant secretary of state and Hiss' one-time boss, to be a witness Monday or Tuesday.

Assigned Rep. McDowell, (R-Pa) to go to New York as a one-man sub-committee and question other witnesses about Hiss' activities back in the 1930s.

Kept its furious feud going with President Truman and the Justice Department. Mr. Truman isn't changing a bit his stand that the committee spy case is a "red herring." That's what he told a news conference late yesterday.

Committee members jeered at that, especially since a New York grand jury indicted Hiss on a perjury charge on evidence turned up as a result of the committee's spy hearings.

Committeemen said they understood the bombsight suspect testified to that same grand jury and that a new grand jury will go more deeply into the case. It was set up after the other jury expired at midnight Wednesday.

Rep. Mundt (R-SD), acting committee chairman, has said the man is a civilian employe of the army at its Aberdeen (MD.) proving ground but is temporarily on leave because of illness. The proving ground tests weapons and all sorts of equipment.

Whittaker Chambers, who has testified that he was a courier for a Red spy ring before splitting with the Communists in 1938, apparently supplied the man's name to the committee as something of an afterthought.

Chambers named Hiss as among his sources of secret documents he says were sneaked from government offices, copied so the information on them could be turned over to the Reds, and then put back.

Hiss has denied having any part in such activity and has said he told the truth to the grand jury.

Sayre was an assistant secretary of state in 1938. Some of the secret documents the committee obtained from Chambers carried the stamp of his office. Hiss worked in Sayre's office in 1938.

Thirty Entries Received In Residence Lighting Contest

The Chamber of Commerce office reports that thirty entries have been received for their outdoor home decorating contest in Warren. The judging of the local residents will begin on Tuesday evening if weather and driving conditions permit and if necessary will continue Wednesday night, according to the chairman of the judges committee.

The judges who will determine the winners of the $150 in prizes are Ed Lowrey, Mrs. William Rice, Mrs. Mildred Carter, Joseph Spence, Jr., and Frank Foster.

A committee of Warren Jaycees will be out tomorrow morning on Lacy School lawn erecting the sixth display for Christmas. In addition to the sponsors listed in last evening's paper, funds for this display will be furnished by the Phenix Furniture Company, Crescent Furniture, Carlsons Service, the Autobody and Thomas Flexible Coupling.

The Lacy display will be quite in keeping with the others finished and lighted for the first time two weeks ago tonight.

It is planned to print the list of entries in the Residence Lighting Contest so that interested citizens will have an opportunity to look them over during the holiday season.

To Entertain State Hospital War Veterans

A joint committee of the Warren VFW Post and Auxiliary is busy completing plans for the annual Christmas visit to the Warren State Hospital Saturday afternoon to entertain and remember with gifts war veterans under treatment at the institution.

This year the organizations are planning to play Santa Claus to 102 patients of three wards. Each will be given fruit, candy, nuts, cigarettes, popcorn balls, ice cream and pie.

Entertainment will include Christmas carols and Yuletide organ music, with the program getting under way about 2:15 o'clock.

The Post and Auxiliary have also made arrangements for the annual Christmas party for kiddies, to be held in the post rooms Thursday evening, December 23, at eight o'clock. Guests will include all children of members of both organization. They will be presented by Santa Claus with candy, fruit and a gift.

Members planning to participate in the visit to the State Hospital Saturday afternoon are reminded to be at the Post rooms at two o'clock or report at the hospital no later than 2:15.

Ernest Stewart is chairman of the committee. The Auxiliary committee is composed of Mrs. Olga Peterson, Mrs. Marie Belton, Mrs. Gertrude Fitch, Mrs. Francis Simonsen, Mrs. Catherine Lingo, Mrs. Garnet Stewart, and Margaret Stewart. The Post committee is headed by Commander LeRoy Fronsberry, assisted by Charles G. Pearson, George German and Homer Fitch.

The Post and Auxiliary are financing the party, with donations received from Oil City, Franklin and the Northwestern Counties Council.

Fine Program Outlined For Kiddies Party

A troupe of clowns, cowboys, dancing dolls and acrobats will be on hand at the Library theater Friday morning, December 24, at ten o'clock to entertain Warren's kiddies in a gigantic Christmas party sponsored by the Warren Lodge of Elks, the Lodge of Moose, Times-Mirror and Warner Brothers' Library theater manager George C. Sarvis.

The entertainment, provided through the courtesy of the Rapp Dance Studio, has been designed to appeal to the younger folk with numbers most fitting for this Christmas season.

There will be a Dolly Dance by eight little girls of pre-school age, so petite and charming that anyone would welcome their appearance under the yuletide tree. A gala array of clowns in their colorful costumes and clever antics are sure to shake the roof top of the theatre with roars of laughter. Cowboy dancers, acrobats and mechanical dolls will be on hand to add to the gaiety of the occasion.

Appearing as guest star will be Miss Audrey Spindler, vocalist from Detroit, Michigan.

"Dumbo", the circus clown, will meet children at the door and personally see to it that no one leaves the theatre without a sideache from laughter.

LOSES FINGER
Merle Carpenter, 7 Carpenter street, employed at Struthers-Wells, was treated at Warren General Hospital yesterday following the loss of his right index finger in an accident while at work.

FEATURED ITEM
Corde purses are being featured by the Jean Carol Hat Shop, with a wide range of styles and colors, according to a special Christmas advertisement in last night's issue.

LOCAL PASTOR SPEAKING
Rev. Rev. Harold Knappenberger, pastor of Grace Methodist church, will return to an old parish Sunday evening and be guest preacher in Russell Methodist church.

DR. WHIPPLE SPEAKER
Dr. Carl Whipple, assistant superintendent of Warren borough schools, will be the speaker for the Monday luncheon-meeting of Rotary Club, 12:15 p. m. at the YWCA activities building, presenting the results of the vocational survey taken during the past summer months.

LIONS CLUB MEETING
Members of the Lions Club will hold their annual Christmas meeting at the YWCA at 12:15 p. m. Tuesday, with Rev. William T. Lane, pastor of Emanuel Evangelical and Reformed church, as the speaker. Attention is also called to announcement there will be no regular meeting on December 28.

ACCOUNTANTS MEET
The monthly meeting of the Jamestown Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, will be held at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Hotel Jamestown, with Donald S. Day, division freight agent for the Erie Railroad Company in Jamestown, as guest speaker. His subject will be "The Railroads Cost Problem—A 6% Return".

DEER HITS CAR
A deer in a hurry was responsible for folding up a fender on the car of George Weaver, of Irvine, Wednesday evening about eight o'clock. The accident occurred when the animal ran into the side of Mr. Weaver's car near the Alex Sandberg home. Apparently the animal was not injured because it left the scene of the accident in a hurry.

BOWLERS TO MEET
Members of the Warren Bowling Association were reminded today that a meeting of all league officers and legue representatives will be held at the Penn Bowling Center Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

LAST-MINUTE SHOPPERS

The last-minute shopper is the bane of the counter-clerk! But, according to an Associated Press dispatch from New York, "for the next six shopping days he's the hope of the nation's merchants.

The good old American custom of the last-minute rush to the stores for gifts is on the way back—or at least businessmen fervently trust it is.

For six weeks now, a business survey reveals, retail sales had been falling behind those in the similar week of last year. Merchants have had many alibis. Now they are singing a happier tune.

In many stores the late rush of customers appears to have started. A few stores here and there report sales this week better than last year. Others say that while sales are still below last year, this week's dollar volume will be much closer to last year's similar week than in any period since the sales slump started in November.

In New York shoppers have just had their first real reminder that Christmas is upon them—the season's first real snowfall made it look like Christmas at least.

"Just wait till next week," the optimists say. "There will be five full shopping days for the last-minute shopping. That hasn't happened in peace time since 1937. In that full week in 1937 we did a third of the entire Christmas season business."

Why is the last-minute shopper reappearing in numbers this year?

He pretty much disappeared during the war years and the first two postwar years, because of shortages of goods. He knew that if he wanted to get his gift list checked off, he'd have to get to the store before the shelves were picked bare.

This year almost everything he'd like to buy is on the shelf—waiting. If he can fight his way through the throng to the counter, he can get his choice.

Also, this year shoppers have been doing more comparing and shopping around, and thereby delaying the final purchasing. High prices have a lot to do with that. And the pinch on the family pocketbook of financing everyday living. What money is left for gifts has to be spent carefully.

BOND SALES SPURT

A most significant item comes to light: People are again buying Savings Bonds. For the last six months they have bought $400 million more Savings Bonds than were redeemed. Total sales this year will exceed $4 billion.

So while some goods may be slow moving across the counters, there is still evidence that the people's purchasing power is unimpaired. This is confirmed by the Department of Commerce which says that personal income is still rising and the amount available for spending is higher.

Farm income, says the department, is off from its mid-year peak, but still far above 1947. Retailers, therefore, can take heart. Their customers can buy goods if offered the proper merchandising inducements.

The Warren County Committee of the Governor's Highway Safety Advisory Council got away to an excellent start at the first meeting held in the Control Room of the Municipal Building Thursday evening, with the chairman, Burgess W. F. Crossett, in charge, and Capt. Joseph McCann, commanding officer of state police of the western area present, with two other officers to explain the purposes and aims of the organization.

Textile experts of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have made a scientific study of what causes the shine on the seat of a pair of woolen pants. And they have decided that it's wear, not dry cleaning, that is responsible. Let us then have no more petty carping at the practices of bureaucracy—not when the bureau's scientists, with the help of a little public money, can come up with startling, valuable discoveries like the above.

The last-minute spurt in Christmas shopping will get under way in Warren tonight with retail merchants keeping stores open until nine o'clock. Christmas shopping hours will prevail with stores remaining open until that hour next Thursday evening, and closing at five o'clock next Friday, Christmas Eve.

Nineteen-forty-eight was a big season for tomato canning. Does that come under the head of cruelty to boarders?

Be sure to go to church Sunday.

Here And There

Christmas this year will find television vying with radio for attention. Both are presenting numerous features, although radio figures its productions will be just as impressive as in the past. In the radio roster for Christmas day are the two holiday variety shows on the rival NBC and CBS networks, each to run two hours at the same time. Also there is a football game, the North-South college All-Stars, for MBS. Among other items is an NBC visit around the world to depict Christmas in various lands. On Christmas Eve, lighting of the national Christmas tree at the White House is to have its annual broadcast as President Truman participates by pushing a button in his home town in Missouri. It also will be televised. Midnight mass will run two hours on ABC, one from New York followed by another at New Orleans.

This And That: Fifty years ago today, according to the Evening Mirror of December 17, 1898: "Christmas exercises were held in the West End schools Friday afternoon. There were trees, and dialogues were recited by the pupils. The rooms of Mrs. McClintock and Miss Slayton united, and those of Miss Burgie and Miss Simpson. Everything passed off very nicely. The number of visitors was very large" . . . Patients and nurses over at the men's ward of the Warren General Hospital had a treat the other day because Reynolds Carr, of Sheffield, more affectionately known to his many friends as "Bunt", bet that Corry would beat Warren in the basketball game played here Tuesday night. According to our informant "'Bunt" placed a wager with a bedside companion, and when he lost he decided to treat everyone in the ward . . . The Post - Journal "Round About Town" column recalls "Jamestown never saw so much ado over anyone engaged in the line of sports as it saw over Hugh Bedient when on October 20, 1912, he returned home after pitching 18 innings of the World Series for the Boston Red Sox against the New York Giants, allowing ten hits and two runs. Bedient, you may recall, was a Jamestown guest at the Old Timers' game at the Warren State Hospital diamond last summer . . . Who are the ninety-nine-year-old Pennsylvanians? Yule Play Is Presented In Hi Assembly

"Home For Christmas," a one-act comedy by Helen L. Miller, was selected by the Dramatic Club for its program for Warren High School assembly yesterday morning. Nancy Lee Plummer was the student director.

Audrey Kiernan played the understanding mother, Mrs. Fairchild, and Mr. Fairchild was portrayed by Tom Cannon. The Fairchild children included Junior, the youngest brother, played by Tim Mullhaupt; Kitty, a junior miss, Leslie Israel; and the typical teen-ager, Scotty, done by Barbara Anderson. Don Wood took the part of Scotty's friend, Wayne Crawford.

Emma Lou Plummer assembled the properties and Elizabeth Dunham was the prompter.

The scene takes place a few weeks before Christmas in the Fairchild living room. The family is trying desperately to solve a housing problem, so that they may have their Christmas alone. Cousin Ruth and her eight-month-old twins have been living with them for the past three months. Just when Wayne Crawford finally finds an apartment for Cousin Ruth and the Fairchild family is relieved of its problems, a letter arrives from Aunt Annabelle saying her family has no place to live and asking if all may come to the Fairchilds'.

REPORTING

Where does the Public Library stand on the question of contests and puzzles? By puzzles we mean those whose solutions bring the winner anything from a set of silver to a check for $5.00 or $500.00. Is the library justified in keeping one staff-member beside the telephone to answer the questions of puzzle and contest workers? The extensive material that is to be found in the library is available to all but we do ask the above mentioned group to come into the library and use the dictionary or other material which the staff will be ready to provide. Is it quite "cricket" to let the staff member answer the questions and have the winner take the prize? The Warren Public Library joins most of the other libraries in the land in declining to look up contest answers when the requests come over the phone. Please cooperate with the library by coming into the library where the staff will be glad to help you.

—WPL—

Scratch the surface of the average man today and you will probably find that he is harboring a secret yen to write the great American Novel. The instinct for parenthood no longer holds supremacy as the only universal urge. Hyde Park and Union Square are yielding up their monopoly as safety valves for pent-up philosophies. Come all ye hopeful: books, magazines and newspapers await; spout and ye shall be heard.

This is indeed an articulate age—but perhaps it is just as well, for not all the voices in this Babel are mediocre or feeble. Many speak with clarity, cogency and conviction; groping and nebulous though they may be at times, their goal is clear and high. There has never been a time in our history when it was so important to have a well informed public. Your Public Library has a wealth of material available on world affairs, and local problems, here you will find answers, pro and con, to much that perplexes us in these troubled times.

Retiring C. of C. Secretary Paid High Tribute By Board

At the December meeting of the board of directors of the Warren Chamber of Commerce the following resolutions were passed unanimously and presented to retiring Secretary Kottcamp who severs his official connection with the Chamber on December 31, 1948:

WHEREAS A. F. Kottcamp, Secretary of this Chamber, has submitted his resignation and requested that he be relieved of his duties, and

WHEREAS this board has considered said resignation with great reluctance and voted to accept same in deference only to the state of Mr. Kottcamp's health, and

WHEREAS all the members of this board desire to enter in the record their great esteem, sincere appreciation and deeply-felt gratitude for Mr. Kottcamp's more than six years of conscientious, intelligent, efficient work in behalf of this Chamber and the entire Community, therefore:

BE IT RESOLVED by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of Warren, Pennsylvania, that A. F. Kottcamp be accorded a unanimous vote of thanks and appreciation for the outstanding executive and administrative efforts he has unceasingly expended as our respected secretary since May 15, 1942, during which period he has been of invaluable aid to this board and to the membership of this Chamber, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that this resolution be spread large upon the minutes as a well-deserved tribute to an officer it will be difficult, if not impossible, to replace and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the president of this board be authorized and directed to present a copy of this resolution, personally signed by every member of this board, to Secretary Kottcamp on the occasion of his departure from office, together with the warmest good wishes of the entire membership for his future happiness and well-being.

The copy handed to Mr. Kottcamp was personally signed by all the directors as follows: President R. L. Blodgett, N. D. Paterson, Nels Anderson, M. G. Keller, Ben Kinnear, W. W. Knapp, A. L. Rasmussen, W. H. Cannon, William E. Yeager, J. R. Hanson, F. A. Wood, Nat Drake, W. S. Clark, R. E. Brasington, and A. L. Chapman.

Mackenzie's Column

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
A. P. Foreign Affairs Analyst

The situation of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist armies in face of the Chinese Communist offensive is so critical that he will have to perform the hat trick if he escapes surrender or a negotiated peace.

It is a moment of grave concern for all nations engaged in combatting the Bolshevist world drive. Figure it any way you will and the vast country of China, housing close to a quarter of all humanity, still remains an important part of the global defense against the Red aggression.

Australia is taking grave note of this threat to her own security. The Sydney Daily Telegraph sums up the position like this:

"Hitherto we have planned our defense along lines which connect up with Britain, her navy and her possessions east of Suez. We now have to put far more emphasis on our collaboration with America.

"If the United States needs bases in our area, she should have them. We are essential to her Pacific defenses. She is equally esential to ours. We have to admit the possibility that, outflanked by strong enemy bases on the mainland, America's defenses in Japan may fail. That would put Australia in the front line again."

However, Washington reads the signs as indicating that we must be prepared to write off China as an almost certain loss.

This doesn't mean that America won't give further aid. It does mean, as I understand it, that Uncle Sam regards it as wholly unfeasible to try to put the Nationalist government on its feet at this late date with a colossal expenditure of our resources.

Rather—as reported by my colleague John Hightower, AP diplomatic expert in Washington—the United States is concentrating on securing a non - Communist western Europe. That is the significance of the current negotiations looking towards a North Atlantic military alliance among America, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

In short, from the strategic point of view western Europe is regarded as relatively the more important at this crucial juncture in the cold war.

I take it that once the bastions of Europe are made secure, the western powers will be bound to spur their defense efforts in the Far East.

It isn't stretching imagination to repeat what this column has said before: the Orient may one day become the Armageddon in which the conflict between Communism and democracy will finally be settled.

The United Nations General Assembly has concluded a torrid twelve week Paris session with results which, in the main, are of questionable concrete value.

Millions of words have poured over the dam without turning any mill wheels to grind the grist for which peace minded folk are hungering.

Much of this torrent of language has been devoted to the bitter warfare between the Soviet bloc and the anti-Communist countries. This re ched its peak Saturday when Andrei Y. Vishinsky, the Russian delegate, hurled at his former allies the awful charge:

"The cause of the second World War was not so much Hitler, but the leaders of France and Britain, supported by the U. S. A."

That was the note on which the assembly adjourned, with the Soviet bloc and the anti-Bolshevists apparently further apart than ever. It is this dangerous division which presumably impelled British Foreign Secretary Bevin to say during a speech in parliament the other day:

"The United Nations is giving us grave concern as to whether it is going to face up to grave problems at all."

Mr. Bevin was voicing the thoughts of observers in general. So long as the world is divided into two hostile blocs, and those blocs are sharply reflected in the United Nations, how can we expect the peace organization to function properly?

The answer, as I see it, is that the UN will remain largely hamstrung just so long as the ideological "cold war" continues. You might as well expect the general staffs of two warring nations to get together and agree on military operations as to expect that those UN blocs can cooperate.

That's an unhappy conclusion, but I don't believe it means we must abandon the UN without further trial. The establishment of the peace organization is evidence of the great ideal which good men have been pursuing for centuries.

It is a historic experiment. So I take it we must carry on. As a matter of fact, who would want to do anything else in view of the example set by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who announced in Paris that she plans to devote the rest of her life to the UN as "the best hope we have for peace."

"We may slide into war," she says, "but we must support the United Nations. It may yet save civilization from the terrible setback of another war."

Nativity Pageant At Trinity Church Sunday Afternoon

The annual pageant of the Nativity at Trinity Memorial church will be given Sunday at 5:00 p. m.

Beginning with the familiar "Adeste Fidelis" and the reading of the New Testament Christmas story, its features are dramatized in the Chancel of the church with appropriate scenery and lighting. Sally Smith and Eugene Morley will play the parts of Mary and Joseph, respectively. Old Christmas carols and modern carols will be sung by the Church's Senior choir and the Church School's Boy choir.

The shepherds, played by John Biekarck, George Ginder, Richard Rutledge and Jack Timmis, enter during the singing of the Shepherd's Carol.

The three Kings this year will be Charles Conaway, John Elliott and Frederick Printz.

During the singing of "Hark to the News Neighbors" the neighbors of the Holy Family in Bethlehem make their entrance. Players in the group are: Burdette Chapel, Beth Culbertson, Louise Culbertson, Robert Dunham, Paul Foster, Wayne Foster, David Kline, Billy O'Dell, Patty O'Dell, Jill Printz, Sally Printz and Carol Von Blois.

"Bring a Torch," an old French Carol introduces another old traditional touch to the mystery, with the torch bearers, Jeanette and Isabella, played by Sandra Mavrelis and Nancy Geracimos.

How Far Is It to Bethlehem?, an English tune sung by Jack Donaldson introduces the English group in which Susan Werner and Cynthia Dunham appear.

One of the most beautiful numbers is the "Carol of the Greek Children" sung by Nancy Wickstrom, with George Ball, Karolyn Lane, John Marymont and Susan Robertson as Greek children.

The familiar "Carol of the Russian Children" introduces David Abercrombie, Susan Abercrombie, Julie Cheronis, William Lane and Barbara Schmutz in Russian costume.

The Chinese Christmas Carol, sung by Bonny Johnson provides the setting for the Chinese group, played by Raynold Cheronis, Marcia Richardson and Ann Blackman.

During the playing of the Swedish Carol, the Swedish group composed of Jeanne Allen, Carol Blackman, Mary Lou Covell, David Gibb and Ann Michell will join the procession.

Other traditional features are "Good King Wenceslas" played by Harry Lewis, with Warner Ahlgren and Robert Cowden; "The Holly and the Ivy" sung by Bonny Johnson, with Valerie Biekarck, Judy Allen, Mary Elliott, Judy Donovan, Kay Graham and Barbara Van Blois as English children.

The pageant is directed by Mrs. Thomas K. Creal, II, with Mrs. Harry R. Lewis as co-chairman; assisted by Mr. S. G. Davis, Mr. Einar Christiansen, the Rockwell Bible Class, the Church School committee and the Property committee.

The music is under the direction of Miss Ethel McCray, with Miss Jean Robertson at the organ.

The crucifer is Harry Mong, the taperers are Johnny Aldrich, Christopher Creal, Craig Donaldson and Jack Trevenen.

The following are members of the Church School Boy Choir: Robert Bates, Robert Bloom, Thomas Creal, II, Kurt Donaldson, James Eberly, John Eberly, Edward Lowrey, David Lopez, Robert Saunders, Bruce Trevenen, and Robert Van Blois.

BPW Membership Enjoys Its Annual Christmas Party

The Warren Business and Professional Women's Club held its annual Christmas dinner and party at the YWCA activities building, with the public affairs committee as hostess. The long table was resplendent with greens, pine cones, figurines, Santa's sleigh and tall candles, and members found their places to the accompaniment of "Jingle Bells" played by a music box concealed in the sleigh.

Following the serving, a short business meeting was conducted by Ruth Karr, the president. Several communications were read, also acknewledgments from the YW and the Red Cross Camp and Hospital Committee for contributions. Report was made of the Needlework Guild collection; and Dorothy Baker, chairman of the finance committee, reported tentative plans for a rummage sale to be held in January. Members were asked to watch the newspaper for further announcement concerning it.

Margaret Gisselbrecht, chairman of the hostess committee, introduced the program with some humorous remarks on Christmas shopping and presented Miss Jane Munn, who gave two readings: "'My Son" by William Ashley Anderson and "'Twas The Night Before Christmas". Shirley Littlefield, Marilyn Armstrong and Jean Simonsen, young accordian pupils of Mrs. Dorothy Engstrom, each played two solo numbers and Mrs. Engstrom pleased with an accordian arrangement of the cantata "The Christmas Child" by Petrie and "Noel", a French carol. Gifts were exchanged and a social time enjoyed.

SUCCESSFUL CANTATA AT GRACE METHODIST

Members of Grace Methodist church choir, directed by Mrs. Edwin Jack and accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Kenneth Nielsen, presented a greatly enjoyed Christmas cantata, "The Christ Child" by Hawley, for members and friends of the parish.

The church had been beautifully decorated in keeping with the Christmas season, work of a group of faithful members of the Dorcas Society, and made a most attractive setting for the choir. Because of special requests already voiced, the cantata will be repeated in the near future.

Soloists were Mrs. Roy Krebs, Mrs. Norman Pierce, Beverly Adams, Mrs. Carl Lindquist, Mrs. LeRoy Hammerbeck, Alvin Albaugh and Earl Ericson, with Arthur Briggs assisting on the violin. There were also special numbers by the men's chorus, ladies' trio and the angels' chorus.

CHRISTMAS SERVICE IN EPWORTH CHURCH

At the Christmas service in Epworth church, the pastor, the Rev. James Kelly, will preach on "The Prince of Peace". Organ music will include: O Little Town of Bethlehem by Redner, arranged by Elizabeth Kelly; Children's Prayer from "Hansel and Gretel" by Humperdinck, and "Procession of the Magi" by Mallard. Nativity Pageant At Trinity Church Sunday Afternoon

The annual pageant of the Nativity at Trinity Memorial church will be given Sunday at 5.00 p. m.

Beginning with the familiar "Adeste Fidelis" and the reading of the New Testament Christmas story, its features are dramatized in the Chancel of the church with appropriate scenery and lighting. Sally Smith and Eugene Morley will play the parts of Mary and Joseph, respectively. Old Christmas carols and modern carols will be sung by the Church's Senior choir and the Church School's Boy choir.

The shepherds, played by John Biekarck, George Ginder, Richard Rutledge and Jack Timmis, enter during the singing of the Shepherd's Carol.

The three Kings this year will be Charles Conaway, John Elliott and Frederick Printz.

During the singing of "Hark to the News Neighbors" the neighbors of the Holy Family in Bethlehem make their entrance. Players in the group are: Burdette Chapel, Beth Culbertson, Louise Culbertson, Robert Dunham, Paul Foster, Wayne Foster, David Kline, Billy O'Dell, Patty O'Dell, Jill Printz, Sally Printz and Carol Von Blois.

"Bring a Torch," an old French Carol introduces another old traditional touch to the mystery, with the torch bearers, Jeanette and Isabella, played by Sandra Mavrelis and Nancy Geracimos.

How Far Is It to Bethlehem?, an English tune sung by Jack Donaldson introduces the English group in which Susan Werner and Cynthia Dunham appear.

One of the most beautiful numbers is the "Carol of the Greek Children" sung by Nancy Wickstrom, with George Ball, Karolyn Lane, John Marymont and Susan Robertson as Greek children.

The familiar "Carol of the Russian Children" introduces David Abercrombie, Susan Abercrombie, Julie Cheronis, William Lane and Barbara Schmutz in Russian costume.

The Chinese Christmas Carol, sung by Bonny Johnson provides the setting for the Chinese group, played by Raynold Cheronis, Marcia Richardson and Ann Blackman.

During the playing of the Swedish Carol, the Swedish group composed of Jeanne Allen, Carol Blackman, Mary Lou Covell, David Gibb and Ann Michell will join the procession.

Other traditional features are "Good King Wenceslas" played by Harry Lewis, with Warner Ahlgren and Robert Cowden; "The Holly and the Ivy" sung by Bonny Johnson, with Valerie Biekarck, Judy Allen, Mary Elliott, Judy Donovan, Kay Graham and Barbara Van Blois as English children.

The pageant is directed by Mrs. Thomas K. Creal, II, with Mrs. Harry R. Lewis as co-chairman; assisted by Mr. S. G. Davis, Mr. Einar Christiansen, the Rockwell Bible Class, the Church School committee and the Property committee.

The music is under the direction of Miss Ethel McCray, with Miss Jean Robertson at the organ.

The crucifer is Harry Mong, the taperers are Johnny Aldrich, Christopher Creal, Craig Donaldson and Jack Trevenen.

The following are members of the Church School Boy Choir: Robert Bates, Robert Bloom, Thomas Creal, II, Kurt Donaldson, James Eberly, John Eberly, Edward Lowrey, David Lopez, Robert Saunders, Bruce Trevenen, and Robert Van Blois.

BPW Membership Enjoys Its Annual Christmas Party

The Warren Business and Professional Women's Club held its annual Christmas dinner and party at the YWCA activities building, with the public affairs committee as hostess. The long table was resplendent with greens, pine cones, figurines, Santa's sleigh and tall candles, and members found their places to the accompaniment of "Jingle Bells" played by a music box concealed in the sleigh.

Following the serving, a short business meeting was conducted by Ruth Karr, the president. Several communications were read, also acknewledgments from the YW and the Red Cross Camp and Hospital Committee for contributions. Report was made of the Needlework Guild collection; and Dorothy Baker, chairman of the finance committee, reported tentative plans for a rummage sale to be held in January. Members were asked to watch the newspaper for further announcement concerning it.

Margaret Gisselbrecht, chairman of the hostess committee, introduced the program with some humorous remarks on Christmas shopping and presented Miss Jane Munn, who gave two readings: "'My Son" by William Ashley Anderson and "'Twas The Night Before Christmas". Shirley Littlefield, Marilyn Armstrong and Jean Simonsen, young accordian pupils of Mrs. Dorothy Engstrom, each played two solo numbers and Mrs. Engstrom pleased with an accordian arrangement of the cantata "The Christmas Child" by Petrie and "Noel", a French carol. Gifts were exchanged and a social time enjoyed.

SUCCESSFUL CANTATA AT GRACE METHODIST

Members of Grace Methodist church choir, directed by Mrs. Edwin Jack and accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Kenneth Nielsen, presented a greatly enjoyed Christmas cantata, "The Christ Child" by Hawley, for members and friends of the parish.

The church had been beautifully decorated in keeping with the Christmas season, work of a group of faithful members of the Dorcas Society, and made a most attractive setting for the choir. Because of special requests already voiced, the cantata will be repeated in the near future.

Soloists were Mrs. Roy Krebs, Mrs. Norman Pierce, Beverly Adams, Mrs. Carl Lindquist, Mrs. LeRoy Hammerbeck, Alvin Albaugh and Earl Ericson, with Arthur Briggs assisting on the violin. There were also special numbers by the men's chorus, ladies' trio and the angels' chorus.

CHRISTMAS SERVICE IN EPWORTH CHURCH

At the Christmas service in Epworth church, the pastor, the Rev. James Kelly, will preach on "The Prince of Peace". Organ music will include: O Little Town of Bethlehem by Redner, arranged by Elizabeth Kelly; Children's Prayer from "Hansel and Gretel" by Humperdinck, and "Procession of the Magi" by Mallard. The choir will sing "Hearken All' What Holy Singing", an old French carol.

On Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, the children of Epworth church will present their annual Christmas program. Everyone is cordially invited to worship in Epworth church.

PRE-SCHOOL PARTY

The December meeting of the Pre-school Mothers' Club will be a party for members and their pre-school children Saturday morning at 10:30 at the YWCA. Candlelighting Carol Service At 1st Presbyterian

The 11 a. m. service in First Presbyterian church on Sunday will be broadcast over WNAE and Dr. Robert S. Steen will have as his sermon topic "And Glory Shone Around".

Jackson Barrell will play, as the meditation "Nativity Song" by Seth Bingham and two numbers, "'And the Glory of the Lord" from Handel's "Messiah" and "'Glory to God in the Highest" by Pergolesi, will be sung by the senior choir. Violet Borg, contralto, will sing "'He Shall Feed His Flocks", also from "The Messiah".

Other events for the day are church school at 9:45 a. m., with classes for all ages and a candlelight and carol service in the church school room at 4 p. m., with all departments participating and a social hour following in the church parlors.

The detailed program for this service is announced as follows:

Candlelighting; The Prophecy, Lewis McCollough; O Come, Emanuel", junior department; The Birth, Luke 2:1-7; Silent Night, Holy Night, congregation; Carol, Children, Carol, primary department; silent prayer, congregation; O Little Town, congregation; The Shepherds and Angel, Luke 2:8-12; Shepherd Song, primary department; The Exultation of the Angels, Luke 2:13-14; Angels We Have Heard On High, congregation; God So Loved the World, Westminster Choir; Shepherds Rejoice, Luke 2:17-20; The First Noël, congregation; The Wise Men and the Star, Matthew 2:1-3; As With Gladness, congregation; Christmas Prayer, Harold Banghart, followed by The Lord's Prayer; Christmas Bells, duet by Ruth Davis and Nancy Lee Plummer.

Nelson And Keller Rite December 9 Announced Today

Announcement is made today of a simple wedding solemnized at noon on Thursday, December 9, in First Lutheran church, when Miss Gertrude M. Keller became the bride of Richard Nelson.

Rev. Edward K. Rogers, pastor, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride was attired in a navy blue suit, with which she wore gray accessories and an orchid. The bridegroom's gift was an antique gold cross.

Her sister, Mrs. Cora M. Gibson, and the bridegroom's brother, Harry F. Nelson, were the attendants, Mrs. Gibson wearing a Talisman rose corsage with an attractive ensemble.

The newlyweds left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip to Cleveland. Upon their return, a reception for 85 guests was given in the home of Mrs. Gibson. The bride's table was attractive with flowers and a beautifully decorated wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson will reside at 423 Rankin street.

Showers for the bride were given by Mrs. Keith Atkins and Mrs. Viola Martin; and her cousins, Mrs. Alta Johnson, Mrs. Mae Lauffenberger and Mrs. Pauline Schirck; also the Dorcas Class. At each of these, lovely gifts for her new home were bestowed.

Double Feature Attraction at the Library Theatre Sunday, Monday, Tuesday

"The Gallant Blade"
Columbia's "The Gallant Blade", a lusty, brawling film throbbing with rousing action, comes to the Library Theatre's screen Sunday, Monday, Tuesday. Co-starring Larry Parks and Marguerite Chapman and having the added asset of Cinecolor, it proved to be a vastly entertaining movie.

As the world's greatest swordsman and boldest lover in 17th Century France, an age which boasted of its great fighters and ardent wooers, Parks is his swashbuckling best as he carves a path with sword and dagger through dark intrigue to glory and love!

The action, and there's plenty of it, takes place during the stirring days when France, having just fought a war to the point of exhaustion, is being maneuvered into another struggle.

"16 Fathoms Deep"
The Arthur Lake Productions' "16 Fathoms Deep," filmed in Florida for Monogram, is based on the death-defying life led by those gay and reckless adventurers, the sponge divers. It opens Sunday, Monday, Tuesday at the Library theatre.

Based on a magazine story by Eustace L. Adams, this motion picture—first feature - length film to be photographed in Ansco color—stars Lon Chaney, Arthur Lake, Lloyd Bridges, Eric Feldary and Tanis Chandler, the only girl in the cast.

Chapter 17

JOE MONAHAN stood at the corner of Ninth Avenue and looked down the block. It was a beautiful June evening and the daylight would last for hours. Flags were draped across the street and on the houses. Bunting braved the breeze. Every window was open to the soft warm air and every window had at least one head poked out of it. Fire escapes had been turned into balconies in spite of all the fire laws. As a good fireman, he heaved a sigh, but he knew his own family would never understand him on that point. Fire escapes were balconies, for big holidays at least, and this was a big one for the block.

Today there were no ball players and no roller skaters. Tonight was the block party and it was bravely announced as the best block party that had ever been held in New York City. Pat Bulger had had something to do with that. Lately Pat had gotten almost obstreperous about the block and the neighborhood. It was the best street in the world and on it lived the best people in the world. Nobody that ever left it ever came to a good end. Bella Durfree had been there and as usual had had to put her two cents in. "What about Rosalie Meeghan?" she had demanded. "She's dancing at Radio City next week." As if everybody in the neighborhood didn't know that and hadn't talked about it. Pat had drained his beer glass and hammered on the table with it. "I repeat, in case you don't understand plain American language. I say no one ever left this block and came to a good end."

His mother had turned it all into a joke, but Joe knew what they were all thinking. He remembered that awful night a month ago when Pat had gone to bring Rosalie home.

Joe heaved a sigh and walked slowly down the street under the waving flags. Enough boys were home to make it a success as well as the first block party. Liquor was plentiful enough, if meat wasn't. Pat would be drunk again. Pat had been drunk more in the last month than in all his years in the flat, really drunk, not just happy and mellow as he got with his beer on Saturday night when he sang old Irish songs. This was a surly drunkenness now, and Pat had never been surly before. Joe had gotten himself stationed on the block for tonight as much to keep an eye on Pat as to avoid dancing with Bella. Bella would rave and forget how refined she was supposed to be. But let her. He was in no mood to dance with anyone tonight. In fact, he hadn't felt like dancing at all since—since Mrs. Meeghan had died.

BELLA appeared as if his thought had drawn her like a magnet from her house. Her face glowed as always at sight of him, and as always he was ashamed because he never did other than try to avoid her. She caught his arm and clung to it, falling into step at his side.

"I was so afraid you'd make up some excuse to get out of coming, even though you promised you were going to dance with me as many times as I wanted. Look at the grandstand. We're not only going to have two bands, but special entertainment as well. The committee arranged it and were lucky. It is going to be a grand night. We'll have stars, a moon and—and everything."

"Especially so many bright lights we won't be able to see the stars or moon. And music so loud no one can think. And too much liquor."

She shook him playfully. "You won't feel like that when you get regular clothes on. I bought a special tie for you to wear, but I have to tie it for you so you don't make a mess of it the very first time the way you did with the last tie I gave you."

He shook his head. "I do wish you wouldn't keep giving me things."

She laughed into his eyes. "If it makes me happy what do you care?"

He squared his shoulders. "I can't wear your tie or dance tonight. I'll be at the party but on duty. We can't risk a fire when all the drunks get lit up at once, you know."

She stopped dead, tears welling up in her eyes that had been so dancingly happy a moment before.

"You did it! You arranged it! I know you did!"

"Bella, be reasonable. It's our work. Suppose I'd been assigned to a theater or—"

She pushed him away angrily. "That's it. You've arranged to be at the Music Hall next week so you can see your beloved Rosalie. You can't dance with me. I'm not fancy enough. I'm—"

He put his hand over her mouth, trying to make it look playful but conscious that dozens of people were watching and listening. He gave a noisy laugh and released her.

"You always say too much, Bella. You know you do."

Her dark eyes were smoldering. "It don't do me a bit of good, does it?"

"You can give me my new tie anyway. I'll wear it as soon—"

She drew back, yanked the tie out of her handbag, dropped it to the pavement and then jumped on it with both feet as she might have on a snake. He tried to stop her, and she slapped him crazily.

"There. She can slap you and so can I. I hate you as much as I hate her. Don't ever speak to me again, never, never."

Chapter 18

BELLA turned and ran up the block. Joe drew a deep breath. This was certainly the start of a swell evening. And everyone was staring. Mrs. Harrigan stood on her steps, arms akimbo.

"And since when, Joe Monahan, do you let that little spit-fire treat you like that? And I saw you beat up that Wayne Kahler that came after your Rosalie."

"And he got her, didn't he?"

Joe hadn't meant to say it. The words just slipped out. Mrs. Harrigan. Ain't that just too bad."

"You have trouble with your women, don't you, Joe Monahan? Why don't you get married to a nice simple girl who'll make a real home for you and make you forget all your worries?"

He winked at her. "Have you anyone in mind, Mrs. Harrigan?"

"That I have."

"And so have I, too, Mrs. Harrigan. Ain't that just too bad."

She burst out laughing as he intended her to do. It gave him a chance to continue on down the street. His mother, dressed in her best, was enthroned in the open window. She hailed him brightly.

"Didn't I see you and Bella coming down the street?"

"You didn't, Mom, but someone told you, so you also know Bella slapped my face. I don't think she likes me."

"She loves you. You can always tell it's love when girls smack."

He grinned at her and winked. "Don't you love me any more?"

"Come in and get out of that uniform."

"I can't. I'm on duty, Mom."

"No wonder Bella smacked you. You deserve it."

He came into the house and gave his mother a hug and kiss in boyish fashion. The fat woman clung to him and spoke quickly.

"See to Pat. He's getting drunk and I have a feeling in my bones that he's going to get into serious trouble this night."

HE left her laughing, but his face was serious as he entered the dining room. A dozen men were crowded into the room, all drinking and milling about Pat as they did on party nights. But Pat himself was different tonight. Joe knew it from the tone of his voice without seeing him. He squeezed up to him and flung an arm over his broad shoulders.

"All ready to celebrate, Pat?"

The man's rough face lighted up. "Sure I'm glad to see you, boy. Will you tell these high-binders off for me. They're trying to tell me it won't be like our old parties because Rosalie won't be here to dance for us."

"Get a glass, Joe. Take mine. Pat's gonna sing The Rose of Tralee."

"That I am not," roared Pat. "I'll never sing again, especially that song."

Mulrooney slapped Pat's broad back encouragingly.

"Say your piece, Pat, and then we'll all have to go find our families."

The stevedore drew a deep breath. "I say we don't need no Rosalie nor nobody that don't want us."

"That's right, Pat." There was a murmur of approval.

"And what's more, this new dancin' hussy ain't our Rosalie at all and never was."

There was a dead silence. Mulrooney broke it gently. "Have you seen her, Pat? We all did. We—"

"I don't need to see her!"

"All right, Pat." Mulrooney was conciliatory. "You know best. But you got to sing one song for us later."

"Let's have another drink around," cried Pat.

Joe was quick. "A song's better, Pat. Come Back to Erin."

The rough, drinking men stood around with tears welling up in their eyes as Pat sang, a little unsteadily at first and then with clearer and clearer voice. Joe knew he had won. There would be no quarrel now. The men would go home humming the sad song and eat the heavy meals waiting for them. Pat would drink no more until after he had sung again tonight, and then it wouldn't matter much. The danger was averted. He was suddenly happy without knowing just why.

When the song was over the men voiced approval of Pat and all his doings and melted away. Mulrooney was last to go and called back from the doorway.

"And suppose Rosalie does come to dance for us like always, what will you say then?"

Pat laughed. "You're a pest, Mulrooney. All I say is to tell her she don't belong to us and heave a brick at her. Now go home. I'm to sing I got to pull myself together."

Chapter 19

NO SOONER was Rex inside the door than he caught Rosalie in his arms and began dancing her about the room. His eyes were shining and there was triumph in his voice as he kissed her.

"Rosalie, darling, you've done it now. We don't have to worry any more. We've got the bull by the tail. You can have anything you want from now on."

She pushed him away vigorously. "The first thing I want is to be let alone. I—I'm tired."

She spoke dully and went back to her breakfast by the open window. Rex followed and, pulling up a chair, sat down jauntily.

"I'll have coffee, too. I see you have an extra cup. You must have been expecting me this morning."

"I wasn't."

She said it curtly but poured the steaming coffee. He sniffed at the flower in his buttonhole.

"May I ask whom you were expecting, darling, if not me?"

"Certainly not."

He chuckled and poured cream generously. "It couldn't by any chance be the handsome young fireman who rescued you, could it? I gather it was your old sweetheart who plunged in to save you when the drunks started throwing things and saying you weren't Rosalie at all but a fake. Don't look so surprised. It was in the papers from coast to coast. Dancing star is pelted on returning to block party in old neighborhood. It was a stroke of genius on your part. Had they cheered you for an hour it would have meant nothing, but to pelt you with fruit and peanuts—that's original."

She glared at him. "I'm glad you enjoyed the idea," she snapped.

"Of course I did. Now we can make some real money. Sister, you are a wonder. They want you all over the country."

"I see. They all want me just because my friends and neighbors didn't want me. They want to see where the rotten egg hit."

He put down his cup quickly so he could gesticulate. "Don't be silly, Rosalie. They want to see you dance. If you were a phoney all this publicity wouldn't mean a thing. But you can dance—especially when you get good and mad."

"I suppose it would have been even better if I'd been killed."

He jumped up and kissed her lightly, laughingly. "You mustn't talk like that. I need you. I found you and I can't do without you. I wouldn't have you hurt for the world, but since you were hurt, at least that shows it wasn't a bit of trumped up publicity even if I am handling you. You did right to let Smoky Joe rush you to a hospital, but you timed it swell when you slipped out so you wouldn't miss your opening number. You have a real head for show business."

She drew a long slow breath. "I seem to be just right for anything rotten."

He sat down and sipped his coffee. "You suit me right down to the ground."

HE SAT back and crossed his legs. "Tell me about this Smoky Joe. You were going to marry him once, weren't you?"

She jumped up angrily. "I don't want to talk about it. I'm sick of it all. It—it was horrible. I'll never forget it. I—I thought I'd die."

Rex grinned. "That was before Smoky Joe caught you in his arms, I bet. It was a good picture of him the News had. It seems his specialty is rescuing beauty in distress, but usually at fires, I suppose. And his mother, too fat to budge out of a chair, taught you to dance. And his stepfather, or his mother's boarder, or whatever this Pat Bulger is, started off the fun by throwing an orange at you. Since he was going to sing he didn't want you to win the crowd. And him a stevedore on the docks. Boy, what a story. There's only one little touch necessary."

The girl's eyes flashed. "I suppose you want me to marry Joe Monahan so you can get more filthy publicity!"

He shook his head slowly. "That's going too far just to make money. You see I want to marry you myself."

It was said with a kind of quiet casualness which made it most impressive. She stood looking at him as he quietly took out a cigarette and lighted it. He was waiting for her to say something. She knew it and just stood staring. He blew out a cloud of smoke and smiled.

"Didn't you know I'm in love with you, Rosalie?"

"I don't believe you love anything but money."

He chuckled. "I'm so glad to hear you put it that way. I was a little afraid it was Daisy Winters that was worrying you. You know Daisy is an awful liar. I was just trying to help her out and she misunderstood."

"I don't care a thing about Daisy or of your other women."

"That's great."

"And I care even less about you, Rex Hall!"

"Let's not go that far, darling. By the way, I met a friend of yours on the plane from Chicago. He's a great admirer of yours. I only beat him here because I knew where you live and he will have to find out. I felt it would be just as well if we got our engagement all settled first."

"It is settled. We are not engaged. Also, I am tired this morning and need to rest."

The door bell rang. She hurried to open it because she was sure it was Roy, for whom the extra coffee cup had been put on the table. She stood rooted to the floor as she saw Joe Monahan, hat in hand. He was out of uniform and looked nervous. His words were husky.

"I want to talk to you, Rosie. I got to see you."

David Carlson's sermon subject will be, "When God Stooped Down". The traditional Christmas "Julotta" service will be held at 12 midnight on Christmas Eve. The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

EARLY COPY FOR HOLIDAY PROGRAMS

Pastors and others responsible for special Christmas programs over the coming weekend are asked to assist the Church Editor by having copy in the editorial rooms of the Times-Mirror no later than noon on Wednesday.

CANDLELIGHT SERVICE

"Around The Christmas Tree" will be the subject of the sermon at the First Baptist church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The choir will sing "Sing O Heavens." by Tours, "Jesu Bambino" will be played as a violin and flute duet by Mrs. Helen Olson and Miss Nancy Whipple, and "Bethlehem" arranged by Dickinson will be sung by the girls' chorus.

The Sunday school will convene at 9.45 with Supt. Earl Burbee presiding, and classes and departments for every member of the family.

At 7:30 p. m., there will be a service of carols and candle-lighting. The choir will sing "Peace and Great Joy" by Scholom, and there will be a Christmas meditation by the pastor, Rev. Milton G. Perry. The dedication of candelabras in loving memory of Blanche Gilson will be a part of the service. The Quaintance Class will hold its Christmas party at the close of the evening service.

COMMUNION SERVICE

This Sunday at the Evangelical and Reformed church, Holy Communion will be celebrated. The message for the morning worship will be, "Today We Know!" The choir will sing two selected Christmas anthems. In the evening, beginning at 7:30, the Sunday school will hold its annual Christmas program. There will be a pageant as well as recitations by the little folk and several musical selections. The children will be interested in knowing that Santa may pay a visit that evening.

HOLY COMMUNION AT FIRST LUTHERAN

Holy Communion will be administered at the eight and eleven o'clock services Sunday morning in the First Lutheran church. Pastor Rogers will preach on the subject "The Lord Is Here" at both of the services. The Sunday school will meet at 9:45, the Intermediate League at 4:30 and the Senior League at 6:30. Pastor Allison will preach on "Glory To God In the Highest" at the 7:30 vespers.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM AT PILGRIM CHURCH

Rev. J. D. Abbott, pastor of First Pilgrim church, announces the annual Christmas program will be presented at ten o'clock Sunday morning by the Sunday school department, under the direction of Mrs. Glen Delp. At the conclusion of the program, the pastor will speak on the thought "My Part in the Christmas Scene." The Sunday school department wil provide a gift for everyone present.

Everybody reads the Times-Mirror.

TIDIOUTE

Tidioute, Dec. 17—The officers of the Odds and Ends Class entertained the class at a Christmas party on Wednesday evening, Dec. 15 in the Sunday School room of the Methodist church. Rev. Swanson spoke on "The Holy Land." A social followed the program. There was exchanging of gifts. The ladies of the W. B. A. entertained at a dinner Wednesday, Dec. 15 at the home of Mrs. Charles King. The election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: President, Francis Grettenberger; vice president, Ingoby Mowers; recording secretary, Sagred Lawson; treasurer, Clara Morrison; financial secretary, Jennie Parker; chaplain, Lillian King; lady of ceremony, Elvira Devore.

The Altar Society of St. John's church met with Mrs. J. McClosky, December 7th. After the business meeting a social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

John David Anderson returned home from the Warren General Hospital, Wednesday, Dec. 15th.

E. Lewis was taken to the Warren General Hospital last week.

Mrs. Gertrude Lawrence and Mrs. John Wilson left Sunday for Long Beach, California, where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Storer and daughter, Joice, of Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. L. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. W. Proper, of Grand Valley, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Storer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kapp and Mrs. Frank Brocklehurst were visitors at Seneca Sunday.

Miss Helen Lodge, of Bradford, spent the weekend with her father and brother.

Miss Martha Jennings and Mrs. H. J. Jennings, have returned home after spending several weeks with relatives at Ardmore.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Pickersgill were business visitors in Jamestown Thursday.

Bob Martin, of Erie, visited his parents over the weekend.

William Levine, who is employed in Buffalo, spent Saturday and Sunday with his mother.

Miss Allene King student at Nurses University in Rochester, is spending her ten day vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John King.

Mrs. Guy Courson and Mrs. Sealander were shoppers in Jamestown Thursday.

Misses Farnham, of Jamestown, anr Miss Alice Siggins of West Hickory, were guests over the weekend of Mrs. J. B. Taggart.

Hugh Shaw, of Bradford, was a Tuesday guest of his father, F. A. Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harris of Erie, spent several days in their home in Tidioute.

A. E. Merkle and son, Robert, were business visitors in Erie Saturday.

Mrs. G. B. Chase entertained her Sunday School class with a Christmas party at her home Wednesday evening. Games were enjoyed and exchanging of gifts was followed by serving of dainty refreshments.

The Christmas rush is on in Tidioute and the town is very festive with strings of lights and evergreens strung through the business section. The community tree which has not been lighted for years, is very beautifully lighted.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McKown and family, have moved from Warren to their new home in Tidioute. We welcome them to our town.

SUGAR GROVE

Sugar Grove, Dec. 15—The annual Christmas party of the Cradle Roll, Cradle Roll class and beginners classes of the Methodist Sunday school and their mothers was given in the church parlors Saturday afternoon with the teachers, Mrs. Edward Barlow, Mrs. Jesse Thompson and Mrs. Gerald Miller in charge. Mrs. Neil Scott acted as pianist for the singing of carols and Mrs. Thompson read the Christmas Story. Recitations were given by Mary Catherine and David Sweeney, Jeanie Allen, and Linda Brown. Gifts from the lovely Christmas tree, the treat from the Sunday School and refreshments served by the committee, completed the pleasant affair.

The official board of the Methodist church, had their monthly meeting Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Schoonover. A tureen supper was served and the business meeting followed with Rev. Ernest Bolling, presiding. Among other things plans for redecorating the church were discussed.

Mrs. Ray Gruber was hostess to the annual Christmas party of the Try Company of the Presbyterian church, at her home Tuesday evening. The guests were served a tureen supper at a long table, lovely with Christmas greens and red candles and Santa Claus favors.

In the absence of other officers the secretary, Mrs. J. A. McIntosh presided at the business meeting.

Miss Josephine Ricker, read the Christmas Story from Luke and articles were read by others.

Mrs. Ralph Abbott reported a large number remembered by the Sunshine department during the past month.

Mrs. Arthur Cody invited the group to meet with her in January. Mrs. Abbott distributed the Christmas gifts. Mrs. Everett Bowers and Mrs. Irene Carlson of Lander, were present.

Mrs. Frank Conklin was hostess to the Christmas party of the Embroidery Club at her home Wednesday afternoon. A tureen lunchean was served and the afternoon was spent with games and socially with an exchange of gifts.

Dragons Battle Sheffield In 1st Away Games Tonight

A basketball scrap between two neighborhood rivals tonight will pair the Warren High Dragons against the Sheffield Wolverines.

The game will be played on the Sheffield court, marking the first out-of-town appearance for the Blue and White in seven starts this season. Game time is 8:15 o'clock, with a preliminary slated for 7 p. m.

The Dragons are undefeated in six straight games, while Sheffield is still trying to find the victory path after three straight reverses.

Other high school cage clubs in the district also are slated for action tonight.

In Upper Allegheny Valley League games, the strong Tionesta and Youngsville fives will collide on the Youngsville floor and Tidioute will face Sugar Grove on the Sugar Grove court.

The schedule also lists St. Marys at Brockway; Punxsutawney at Kane; Spartansburg at Pleasantville, and Bradford at Brookville.

MEN'S MINOR LEAGUE

Papalias Esso held the high-stepping New Process Company Mailers to an even draw while the second-high Millers Confectioners downed the Bakers Atlantic squad in Men's Minor tenpin league firing on Penn alleys last night. In other tilts, New Process Shippers tripped up the New Process Receivers, 3-1, and Metropolitan Life Insurance pasted a 3-1 defeat on Carlsons Olds.

Ralph McCloskey, of the Metropolitan squad, was the high individual performer of the evening with a 570 total (180-190-200). Bill Anderson, of New Process Receivers, posted games of 183, 208 and 175 for 566; and Stub McMichael of New Process Mailers slammed the sticks for a 563 total, (176-161-226).

No Men's Minor League games will be slated for next Thursday night because of the Christmas holiday.

which has just celebrated its centennial, is anxious to share birthday honors with all residents of the state who will be one hundred years old during 1949. A framed testimonial will be presented to each centenarian on his or her birthday by officers of the County Medical Society. During the present year, seventy-three Pennsylvanians were given similar plaques and other gifts, including one in Warren and another in Venango county. Names of those who will be one hundred years old next year, and the date of their birth, are requested by The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania, 230 State street, Harrisburg . . . A group of members of the VFW Post and Auxiliary has been busy the past few days getting ready to make their annual visit to the Warren State Hospital Saturday afternoon this year, to remember 102 veterans of three wars . . . J. Belmont Mosser, Ridgway, president of Kiwanis International, who has appeared in Warren on several occasions, will be heard over a nationwide hookup (MBS) Christmas day from 11:30 until twelve noon, and the WNAE boys are working on a plan, if possible, to carry the program—there'll be more about that later in the news column . . . Christmas programs will get under way in Warren this weekend with a number of churches planning annual entertainments Sunday . . . Dick Rapp has shaped up a most entertaining program for the kiddies' party at the Library theater next Friday morning, at ten o'clock, sponsored by the Moose, Elks, Warner Brothers and the Times-Mirror.

LANDER

The annual Christmas party of Lander Sunshine Club was held in the Community house with a good attendance. Mary Stufflebeam presided at the business meeting. The calendar committee reported the birthday calendars ready and anyone wishing to buy one can obtain them from Mrs. Fred Ludwick or at the Lander Store. The quilt committee reported the quilt would be disposed of at the next meeting. It was voted to pledge $36 to the church for the next year. Election of officers will be held next month with Grace Stanton, Doris Stanton and Mildred Swanson as nominating committee. Margaret Mahan requested her name dropped from the roll. It was voted to give $5 for use of the community house. Contests in charge of Rae Lindell and Rachel Hitchcock were won by Dora Van Ord and Helen Lindell. Receipts for the day, dues $5.30, Jello 2.75, penny collection 83 cents. Dinner committee was Anne Meley and Edith Hitchcock. Next meeting will be held with Mrs. Jay Cowles with Mrs. Gayle Meley assisting.

The Young Married Couples 500 Club held their Christmas party Saturday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. David Rice at North Warren. A delicious turkey dinner was served followed by an evening of "500". Prizes for high score were awarded to Donald and Gladys Gruber. Consolations to Dick Lindell and Helen Parker. Ed Wilcox receiving the traveling prize. An exchange of gifts concluded a pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haley entertained in honor of their father's Frank Lounsbury's birthday on Sunday. Holiday season decorations were used on the table. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Putnam of Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kays of Lander, Mrs. Kate Lounsbury and Harley Lounsbury of Warren. Mr. Lounsbury was remembered with nice gifts by those present.

Windows At Beaty School Decorated

The many who have occasion to pass over Third avenue and the hundreds who turned out Wednesday night for the annual Carol Festival at Beaty Junior High School have been delighted with the beautifully decorated windows on the northwest corner of the building.

Planned by the art club of seventh, eighth and ninth grade students and directed by Joseph Spence, instructor, the windows carry out the theme "'Twas the Night Before Christmas". On the west side of the building, three large windows contain the figure of a small boy sleeping and dreaming before a fireplace, with Santa Claus and the traditional Christmas tree sharing honors.

On the front, or avenue side of the school, one window has been artistically prepared to represent stained glass, while others bear candles and other holiday symbols.

Students who have been working on the project are Sarah Hale, Geraldine Gibson, Charles Conway, Richard Goodwill, William Grosch, Reynold Flatt, Donald Harrison, Ray Bartholomew, Marilyn Pasquino, Patty Larsen, Bernard Gray, Samuel Gerardi, Everill Waite, Kay Gibson, Frank Smith, Barbara Van Blois, Jerry Aquist, Lewis Garber, and Leonard Lytle.

A seventh grade project at the Beaty building has been the preparation of enlarged greeting cards which carry the message "Merry Christmas" in 28 different foreign languages. Following their careful preparation, these have been placed about the halls of the school and many at last night's concert toured the corridors to admire them.

80th Congress To Meet December 31

Washington, Dec. 16—(AP)—It looks as though many Pennsylvania members of the house will have to do their New Year's eve singing of Auld Lang Syne in Washington.

It's the members of the present, the 80th congress who are effected.

When the house adjourned last summer it agreed by resolution to meet again December 31. That was to enable the members to call a session sooner if they wished. They didn't come back. But now they must meet to adjourn for quits.

Members who won't relish traveling back to Pennsylvania after the one-afternoon session and then returning to Washington again in time for the opening of the 81st congress on January 3 no doubt will decide to remain here.

Members from other comparatively nearby states are affected similarly. Those from distant states have little choice.

Probably the only members who will bother to attend the adjournment session are those who were reelected.

Ospreys, as well as some other birds, carry water in their feathers and shake it over their nests, to keep the eggs moist.

Directors Of Conservation Hold Session

The directors of the Warren County Soil Conservation District held their regular meeting at the District office in the court house, Tuesday evening

Chairman Stanley Laurence called the meeting to order and called for a report on the operation of the District bulldozer from Mr. Albert Sutton, operator. The unusually good fall weather has permitted the continued operation of the machine in clearing land for pasture and cropland as well as construction of drainage ditches.

The directors voted to accept the equipment usage plan with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service covering the bulldozer and number 2 terracer on loan to the Warren County District Following other routine business, the Directors called for a report from Harold W. Geiger Work Unit Conservationist Mr. Geiger reported a total of 92 farmers signed as District members to date. He then submitted the first five complete farm conservation plans for approval by the Directors. These plans were for the Clarence Carter farm, Bear Lake; the Paul Lindell farm, Russell; two James Locey Farms at Sugar Grove; and the Frank Dodd farm at Columbus. The Directors reviewed and approved these plans

Ten more plans have been prepared to be presented at the next meeting The following conservation pratices were reported. 0.8 miles drainage ditches, 0.5 miles of drainage terraces, 0.1 miles of diversion terraces, 2 farm ponds complete. Fish for these ponds have been ordered for spring stocking by the Directors.

Farmers interested in securing assistance with their soil and water conservation problems should contact one of the following Directors.

Stanley Laurence Youngsville, Allan Lindell, Lander; Paul Mitchell, Spring Creek; Carl Peterson, Scandia, O. E. Loper, Court House.

Beaty Junior High School Has Program

Students of Beaty Junior High School gathered in the gymnasium on Thursday morning for their annual Christmas assembly

The Junior High School Orchestra, under the direction of Harry Summers, played three numbers. Soldier's March, The Merry Farmer, and Little Romance from a Schumann Suite, Marjorie Waltz by Loos, and Christmas Fantasy by Bergh.

The Beaty Chorus, composed of seventh grade pupils under the direction of Howard Andersen, sang four selections, followed by group singing of traditional carols.

The assembly closed with three numbers by the Junior High Band, American Patrol by Meacham; Comin' 'Round the Mountain by Yoder, and Christmas Fantasy by Buchtel.

High Rating Given Warren State Hospital

It is learned today that Warren State Hospital has been approved by the American College of Surgeons as the result of a recent survey of the institution made by a representative of the ACS

His report, which was reviewed and evaluated under the point rating system by the headquarters staff, indicates the hospital scored a rating of 83%.

Provisional rating ranges, it is stated, are from 60 to 69% and full approval is 70%.

Letters were given to Randall White, Ted Shattuck, Harold Gnage, Keith Vesling Charles Niederlander, and William Tannler.

These letter men the secretary of the Athletic Association, John Castagnino, and the four managers, Bruce Forsgren, James Johnson, Robert Lee, and Stanley White, took turns in presenting letters and sweaters to Robert Brumagim, John Castagnino Dalton Dickerson, Walter Diemann, Creed Erickson, Bruce Forsgren, Bruce Gross, John Hamm, Charles Henderson James Johnson Robert Lee, Charles Reese, Ned Salerno and Stanley White

The cheerleaders completed the program by leading the group in a number of cheers.

School Choir Has Program At Assembly

The Warren High School a Cappella Choir, under the direction of Carroll A. Fowler, provided the assembly program at the high school this morning.

The choristers sang "When De Star Shine" by Cain, with Gordon Odmark as soloist, "Lullaby on Christmas Eve" by Christiansen, with Ella Carlstrom as soloist, and "Two Kings" by Clokey accompanied by Don Wood and Neil DeStefano, trumpeters Barbara Schmitza nd Nick Mangus, trombonists

Mr Fowler then led the assembly in the singing of Christmas carols, with piano accompaniment by Harry Summers.

For the closing number, the combined choruses were directed by Mr. Fowler and accompanied by the orchestra in "Unto Us Is Born a Son," a Christmas cantata by Clokey-Kirk Narrators were Robert Buchanan and Richard Cunningham, soloists Elaine Pierce, L. G. Furman, Ned Salerno, Ruth Davis and Gordon Odmark

All numbers selected for the assembly program were originally done in the Wednesday evening Christmas Carol Festival at Beaty gym.

METER COLLECTIONS
City parking meters coughed up $151.68 for the borough coffers yesterday when police made their weekly collection rounds.

CHECK PASSER FOILED
Police were on the trail of a suspicious person who was attempting to cash a check about town last evening. Due to the alertness of the prospective victims, police were able to prevent loss to some merchant.

MARRIAGE LICENSE
An application was made for a marriage license at the Court House yesterday by Henry Lee Griffin and Evelyn Leona Swanson, both of Warren.

ELKS WINNERS
Two pairs, August Karlson-M. A. Kornreich and Henry Hunzinger-Harold Gustin, tied for top honors in last night's Elks Bridge Club tourney. Next in scoring line were Henry Shields and Joe Mullen.

HAS APPENDECTOMY
Friends of Lanny Wert, ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Wert, 316 Jackson avenue, will be glad to know that he is getting along satisfactorily following an appendectomy performed yesterday in Warren General Hospital.

CHRISTMAS ISSUE
The special Christmas issue of the Warren High School Dragonette put in an appearance at the school this morning, complete with a drawing of Santa, his reindeer and drifting snow. Harrison Wood is editor of the current issue.

KITTENS RESCUED
Police were called to South Carver street yesterday afternoon after an east side man had been observed dumping four tiny kittens out of a sack there. Police ascertained the owner and returned the kittens to him, advising him to find homes for them.

WNAE FAMILY PARTY
Radio Station WNAE staff members and guests enjoyed their annual "family" Christmas party last evening, with a spaghetti dinner and gift exchange at the White House Inn. A special guest for the affair was Don Ioset, field representative of the station relations department of the Mutual Broadcasting Company.

JACK RABBITS
Area nimrods who have had varying success through the small game season and through the bear and deer seasons, will have another chance to try their luck afield when the season opens Monday for jack rabbits. The "jacks" are reported making a comeback in the district, and quite a few were seen during the deer season. The season will continue until Saturday, Jan. 1.

ACCIDENT REPORTED
Cars operated by Mrs. Grace Heasley, of Clarendon RD 1, and Milton Healy, of Garland, were involved in a collision at Pennsylvania avenue, east, and Linwood street Wednesday afternoon, it was reported at the police station. There were no injuries, but the Heasley car was damaged to the extent of $185. The Garland vehicle suffered about $25 damage. The accident occurred when Healy was entering Pennsylvania avenue from Linwood street, and his vision was obstructed by a large truck parked near the intersection. Mrs. Heasley was proceeding east on the avenue.

Obituary

Unless otherwise stated visiting hours at Warren's funeral homes are from 10 a. m. to 12, 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

EDGAR J. SMITH
Edgar J. Smith, 71, retired West-Hickory lumberman, died in Titusville Hospital yesterday at 8 a. m. after a long illness.

He was born in West Hickory on June 2, 1877, and lived in that area all his life. He leaves two sons, Henry Smith of Tidioute and Jackson Smith of Tionesta; a brother, Walter Smith, of West Hickory and four grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Sage funeral home at Tidioute, where services will be held at 2:30 p. m. on Saturday. Rev. Fuller of the Tidioute Baptist church will officiate. Interment will be in East Hill cemetery.

JOHN C. JOHNSON
Kane, Dec. 17—The body of John C. Johnson, 86, oldest member of the Tabor Lutheran church here, who died in Brooklyn, was returned today for burial.

Johnson was born in Sweden and came to Kane in 1882, working as a carpenter and contractor until he retired and left two years ago to enter the Lutheran Augustana Home for the Aged in Brooklyn.

He died in the home Tuesday after a long illness. His widow, the former Anna C. Carlson, who lives at the home, and a son, Ethland Johnson, of Smethport, survive.

MISS ALMA S. ANDERSON
Miss Alma S. Anderson, aged 72, of Youngsville, died in Warren General Hospital at 7:30 p. m. Thursday following a short illness. Surviving her are two sisters and three brothers. Mrs. Ryal Mead, Mrs. Mary Fisk, Warren, John P. Anderson, Ridgway, Namon and C. E. Anderson, Youngsville; also several nieces and nephews. She was a member of Saron Lutheran church, Youngsville.

Removal has been made to the Young Funeral Home in Youngsville, where friends will be received and from where services in her memory will be held at two o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. Harold V. Lindquist, pastor of the Evangelical United Brethren church, Youngsville, will conduct the rites and interment will follow in the Youngsville cemetery.
